

YOUSENDIT AND MUVEE ANNOUNCE COLLABORATION

Integration of services allows users to automatically edit home videos and deliver them instantly

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. and SINGAPORE — December 11, 2006 – YouSendIt, Inc., the leader in file delivery for business, today announced a partnership with muvee, the pioneer and leader in automatic video production. The two companies have integrated their services into a combined offering that will be marketed as muvee autoProducer 5 with YouSendIt. Users can now easily create automatically edited home videos using muvee autoProducer software, and email them within the muvee application itself using the integrated YouSendIt service.

“Making it easier for people to create and then share professional-quality videos of the most important events of their lives is a passion for us,” said Pete Kellock, founder and CEO of muvee. “Our software lets anyone turn their video clips and pictures into a stylish, edited video production that’s set to music in just 3 easy steps. Together with YouSendIt, we’re giving users a remarkably easy way of creating more compelling personalized content for immediate sharing.”

With muvee autoProducer, users simply add the video, pictures and music that they want to use, then choose from one of 24 themed video editing styles to add in visual effects and transitions. The software automatically creates a finished production, intelligently selecting footage highlights and cutting everything to the beat of the user’s chosen music. Once users have created a muvee, they can click on the integrated YouSendIt link within muvee autoProducer to send the video file they have just created to anyone they would like to share it with. This offering mainly targets consumers who are looking for a quick, easy and effective solution for making and sharing home movies and slideshows, but also extends to professional videographers, including wedding and other event photographers.

“muvee’s software takes the pain out of creating compelling videos,” said Ivan Koon, CEO of YouSendIt. “YouSendIt takes the pain out of delivering large video files. The process of making and delivering videos just got easier and faster with this new combined service.”

A 30-day free trial of muvee autoProducer 5 with YouSendIt is now available for download from www.muvee.com/yousendit. Downloaders can purchase a product key to unlock their trial version, without having to re-download or install the software. There is currently a 20% discount offer on all online purchases of muvee autoProducer 5 with YouSendIt.
